About the instrument

I got the inspiration for this Omakase instrument from the customer's love for mathematics and Italian Barolo wines. I combined this 2 in a riddle:

The Golden Tool of Mankind

If you use it wise, you will be enlightened about the finish's origin!

In the fingerboard I have inlayed 2 equations in pure Gold.

If you want to solve the riddle by yourself before reading the solution, then don't turn to the next page.

Here are the 2 equations:

$$\left(\frac{\sqrt{11235\ 813\ 21} - 0,864\ 5731154}{\sqrt[3]{27}} - \left(\int_1^4 3x^2 + 6x + 5dx \right) \right) \cdot 11^3 \left(\frac{1}{5^4} \right) + 42,282634 = N$$

Here are the solutions of the 2 equations:

$$N = 44.6358$$

$$E = 7.9598$$

In case you still want to solve the riddle, here is a little hint:

E stands for East

N stands for North

Solution of the riddle

1. You have to solve the equations right.

$$N = 44.6358$$

$$E = 7.9598$$

2. You have to realize that these 2 numbers are GPS World Coordinates.
3. If you type in these GPS Coordinates in a GPS system (for example Google Earth), you will be directed to a small exclusive winery in the Piedmont area in northwest Italy where you can find the fine Barolo wines.

This Winery's name is Mauro Molino. I had a very nice bottle of a 2012 Barolo from this family run business and with this red wine, I colored the instrument (Finish) before applying a clear coat.

During the coloring process I - of course - had to taste the wine to control the quality and to get inspired...

The empty bottle is now stored in the case of the instrument.
