When water matters

What will the colour of the water look like in my pool?

(ENG)

The power of colour is boundless. It connects us to moments, sensations, emotions.... For this very reason, one of the most frequently asked questions for anyone planning to build the pool of their dreams is What colour do I want it to be and what mosaic tile should I choose?

Colour is determined by several factors, such as light, water depth, location and the scenery around your pool.

The deeper the pool, the deeper the colour. The shallower the pool, the lighter the colour. Another vital factor is sunlight. The amount of light that falls on the pool water will directly affect the shade and overall feel of the pool. The same goes for everything in the immediate environment, including any buildings that make the water appear darker or trees that reflect a greener tone.

And, of course, the glass mosaic chosen for the pool's finish. Your choice of tile will be an important factor for the water colour you're after. Transparent, turquoise blue, Tuscan green, sky blue...?

Perla - Iris Collection
