

---

ARCHITECTURE + DESIGN

2025 Paint Color Trends: Predicting The Year's Most Popular Palettes

Author:

/ September 23, 2024

We asked the country's top designers what color trends are taking the spotlight in their current and upcoming projects. Here, experts share what they're seeing today and predicting what palettes are going to be trending in interiors in 2025.

So what's the scoop? Experts anticipate 2023 trends like earthy hues to continue their reign of popularity. Similarly, the stream of moody palettes we saw in the 2024 paint picks shows few signs of slowing down. Still, some predictions might surprise you (we're looking at you, sherbert hues). Whatever your style, see all the colorful predictions for the paint trends to come in 2025.

12. Soft Neutrals Make The Perfect Backdrop

“Benjamin Moore’s Chantilly Lace is my No. 1 wall color. It’s a soft neutral that allows for layers of experimentation, endless art options and an open mind for future curation. We love the pops of cobalt blue against this timeless base.”

—Helen Bergin, Helen Bergin Interiors | Palm Beach, Florida

Photo: Abigail Mair

Blue elements pop on against Benjamin Moore’s Chantilly Lace in this Bergin-designed kitchen.