FORGOOD Post-Evaluation

Over the next 3 pages, you will be walked how to conduct a FORGOOD Post-Mortem on a behavioural intervention you've implemented. Through this post-mortem you will analyse the ethical performance of your intervention and identify key lessons to take forward and apply in future interventions.

What intervention have you implemented?

What is the target behaviour? Who is the target population? What are the components of the intervention? How will the intervention be implemented?

How are you evaluating your intervention?

What data have you got and how was this collected? Have you got all the data you need to properly evaluate the intervention? What might be missing?

FORGOOD Post-Evaluation

Looking at your actual outcomes, did any ethical issues arise that you hadn't anticipated?

Iterations to your current intervention

Are there any changes you will make to your current intervention to address any of the ethical issues that have arisen since it's been implemented?

Lessons learned for future interventions

What would you do differently knowing what you now know? Are there any ethical assumptions you had before that were proved wrong? Are there any groups that experienced the intervention differently that you need to watch out for?
