

FAMILY-FRIENDLY GREENVILLE ITINERARY

MORNING

Whether you have infants, toddlers, young children, tweens, or teens, Greenville-Pitt County is fun for the whole family! Start your morning at Coconut Café and Play, a cheerful indoor play café for little ones featuring great coffee and a laid-back atmosphere for parents to enjoy.

After breakfast, head to Farmville Public Library to check out its robust children's programming or visit the StoryWalks in partnership with Sheppard Memorial Library at Wildwood Park and Greensprings Park in Greenville. Along with these opportunities, there are more than 60 public parks and recreation facilities to explore throughout Pitt County.

AFTERNOON

For lunch, pizza is always a crowd pleaser, and we have plenty of delicious options in Pitt County including Marabella's Old World Pizza, Cucinella's, and Michaelangelo's. Each of these pizzerias has several locations throughout Pitt County, making dining in or ordering to go a breeze.

Continue your outdoor adventures at the Greenville's Town Common Inclusive Playground. There are plenty of local venues for indoor fun too. Pitt County has several indoor amusement parks and playgrounds including Sawyer's Fun Park – perfect for young children and teenagers – and Sprouts Indoor Playground and Studio, which is for young children under the age of six.

EVENING

When you're ready for dinner... or should we say... when your kids are ready for dinner, check out Sam Jones BBQ in Winterville, which has a robust and affordable kids' menu, plus plenty of highchairs for little ones.

Or, if you're looking for a retro atmosphere and seasonally curated menu, Native Fine Diner in the Historic Dickinson Avenue District is kid-approved! Along with a unique menu and fun offerings for your littles, be sure they try the Purple Cow kids' float - a local favorite on the dessert menu!
