1.	Welcome (Alan Dayeh, Point Advisory, and Chair of First Nations Peoples' Rights Working Group)
	A warm welcome including new members and Acknowledgement of Country.
	<ol> <li>Purpose of this working group is:</li> <li>Address and advance the rights of First Nations peoples and others subjected to systemic racism.</li> <li>Elevate First Nations peoples' participation and voices in investment and the Responsible Investment community.</li> <li>Increase access, scale and impact of First Nations peoples' related investment activity.</li> </ol>
	Please see Attachments 1 and 2 for the Principles of Participation and our 7 Objectives.
2.	Motion: to adopt the Minutes from June meeting
	Motion to adopt: Alan Dayeh
	Adopt: Claire Heeps (HESTA)
	Second: Jackie Radisich (Future Super)
3.	Presentation and Q&A – Indigenous Land Use Agreement Presentation by Jamie Lowe, CEO of the National Native Title Council. Jamie has extensive experience in native title and cultural heritage management, including in his current role as CEO of the Eastern Maar Aboriginal Corporation.
	Some basic info on ILUAs can be found here.
	A recording of the session can be viewed here .

A rich discussion was held on the ILUA process and the challenges it presents for self-determination and Free, Prior and Informed Consent. These include: There is a lack of clarity about the entire ILUA process, and some communities have extensive experience with the process, and some have no experience at all. There is a spectrum of agreements, some offer no compensation, and some include multi-million-dollar compensations. Some agreements span a generation which is 25 years. This results with some agreements having outdated terms of agreement. Resourcing of the Prescribed Body Corporate (PBC), which is nominated to represent the native title holders, is a major issue and results in huge power imbalances when negotiating with companies. In 2020 NNTC spoke with PBCs in WA who have agreements with mining companies, and they highlighted three aspects of the process which could be improved: i) The mining companies could fund the operational costs of the PBC so that money from the royalties is not used up, ii) Keeping places/sites, iii) Cultural mapping. NNTC have developed a proposed pricing model that they are happy to share with RIAA Chris Croker (Impact Investment Partners) noted a community may receive 100 requests over a 6-month period as part of the ILUA process. It can be difficult for native title holders to actually review the conditions of the agreements and it can be even harder for investors to influence over the companies without knowledge of the original agreements. Another main shortfall of the ILUA process is that it doesn't reach the standard of free prior and informed consent. If a PBC refuses an offer for an agreement, then the claim can be taken to the National Native Title Tribunal (NNTT) where there is a 90% chance of that refusal being overturned and the PBC is forced into negotiation. In order for communities to have the freedom to reject agreements and not be coerced by the NNTT the law would need to change in order to empower communities. Investors can use their financial leverage to influence companies to raise bar and empower Traditional Owners through the ILUA process. Key areas of influence for funding, time and transparency would be: Advocate for greater funding (either direct to proponent companies or governments) be made available to PBC as part of ILUA negotiation processes to ensure sufficient resourcing in place for demonstrating effective stakeholder engagement Advocate for sufficient timeframes for ILUA establishment processes, commensurate with the size of the project and degree of stakeholder engagement o Advocate for greater transparency of ILUA terms to be disclosed or at least made available to investors 4. Update on Dhawura Ngilan project (Alan Dayeh – Point Advisory and Claire Heeps - HESTA) If you and your organisation would Dhawura Ngilan embodies the long-held aspirations of like to provide, or Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people for their heritage.

Purpose and Principles

Purpose of RIAA working groups

RIAA hosts a number of member working groups as important communities of practice for members to collaborate and share leading practices and knowledge, as a means of building the capacity of members to be more effective in their work in areas consistent with the RIAA mission:

"The Responsible Investment Association Australasia (RIAA) works to promote, advocate for, and support approaches to responsible investment that align capital with achieving a healthy and sustainable society, environment and economy."

The purpose of working groups are to:

- Provide a community of practice that will help to build the capacity of members to be more effective in their work in areas consistent with the RIAA mission.
- Build members' knowledge and understanding of important aspects of responsible investing and sustainable finance
- Generate and encourage implementation of leading practice approaches within the industry
- Provide an opportunity for members to link with others around important areas related to responsible investment, especially to share information, resources and activities
- Involve members in addressing some of the challenges in the responsible investment industry and working to achieve a constructive pathway forward.
- Gain members views and opinions to aid in the development RIAA policy positions, advocacy, and research work

Principles of RIAA working groups

As a working group participant, all members agree that they will act in the best long-term interests of the responsible investment sector and the community more broadly, and that in this role they will participate to develop the resources for the sector to develop and improve as a whole, not for individual / organisational gain.

As a result, members commit to the following principles:

Confidentiality – all discussions in the group are confidential and not to be quoted outside the group, unless approval is expressly given by members of the group. Specifically, no statements or quotes made at the working group meeting will be attributed to specific people or organisations outside of that meeting.

No self-promotion – the group (either in meetings or via electronic communication) will not be used to promote the activities, products, services or policies of an individual or organisation, unless expressly requested.

Declaration of conflicts of interest – at the start of each group members will be asked to declare their conflict of interest relating to the topic or agenda. Members will be expected to self-exclude themselves from any discussions where there are decisions or positions related to their conflict of interest. If they do not, the Chair may request that they do.

Representation – unless specifically agreed, group members are not authorised to represent the working group nor to represent RIAA. Equally, RIAA is not authorised to speak on behalf of members of the working group, nor make representations on the group's behalf unless specifically authorised by the working group, or a subset of the members of the group (in which case that representation will only be on behalf of that subset who have explicitly opted in). RIAA may however speak externally to the types of issues and views being considered by the working group, without specific attribution.

Collaboration between members – the purpose of the working group is to encourage collaboration between members to share insights and leading practices. Members should attend the working groups with the intent of collaborating, not of using material for their (or their organisation's) gain or competitive advantage, or to influence the group to advantage themselves or their organisation. Working Groups must not be used as a platform to self-promote, to criticise other members or to campaign. Members support this spirit of collaboration through constructive engagement.

Positive change in practice / policy – the working groups aim to influence a positive change in policy and practice within the industry. Members are encouraged to share their examples of policy and practice improvements. We champion RI best practice and encourage change through engagement (not calling out bad practice).

Not engage in or discuss competitively sensitive information – working groups will at times involve discussions between competitors, or potential competitors. In accordance with competition law, working group members will not discuss competitively sensitive information nor enter into anti-competitive agreements, and will not share such information, specifically that which is not publicly available information. Competitively sensitive information includes information on pricing, sensitive financial information, non-public strategic information, negotiation or tender information, and information about voting intentions (takeover provisions).

Apolitical - RIAA is an apolitical organization that builds relationships with organisations and individuals with a broad range of beliefs and values.
