

THINKING ABOUT HIRING AN UNINSURED WINDOW CLEANER? THINK AGAIN!

When it comes to getting the job done, choosing the right team is crucial. While subcontractors might seem like an easy solution, they often come with hidden risks that can jeopardize your business and reputation. Here's why you should think twice before hiring an uninsured window cleaner:

- Quality Control Concerns

Subcontractors may not adhere to the same standards of quality as Fish Window Cleaning. Remember, subpar work reflects on your home or business.

- Hidden Costs

Initial savings might be tempting, but hidden costs often arise with subcontracting. From subpar work due to poor quality to unexpected fees, these expenses can quickly add up, eating away at your budget.

- Liability Risks

Subcontractors can increase your liability exposure. Issues like workplace safety violations, insurance complications, and legal disputes can all come back to haunt you, potentially leading to significant financial damage.

- Inconsistent Cleanings

A subcontractor may not prioritize your job. Leading to delays, rushed work, and a lack of dedication to your home or business. Fish Window Cleaning shows up!
