

What Type of College is Best for Me?

A technical college is a good fit if you:

- Want a career-focused education
- Prefer working with your hands
- Want a more affordable education with less college extracurricular activities

A community college is a good fit if you:

- Want to save money on higher education
- Plan to transfer to a 4-year university to finish your bachelor's degree
- Have a part-time job

A private college is a good fit if you:

- Prefer smaller class sizes
- Want to study a specific major that a private institution offers
- Want a smaller student to faculty ratio for more individualized attention

A public college is a good fit if you:

- Prefer medium to large class sizes
- Want a larger variety of majors and electives to choose from
- Comfortable with a larger student to faculty ratio

A liberal arts school is a good fit if you:

- Want a well-rounded education with interesting electives
- Don't know exactly what you want to study (yet)
- Want to participate in student organizations
- Desire to attend grad school

A research school is a good fit if you:

- Want to focus on your major field of study and nothing else
- Desire to connect with experts in the field you're studying
- Like state-of-the-art labs and tech
- Want to participate in research studies
