Green is our way

Bolenius Rembrandtpark takes pride in celebrating Dutch Cuisine, pioneering a gastronomic approach that emphasizes sustainability and harmony with nature. Led by Chef and founder Luc Kusters, the restaurant specializes in seasonal, locally sourced ingredients.

Many of the ingredients are cultivated directly in the restaurant's own garden and greenhouse located in Amsterdam's Rembrandtpark.

Bolenius embodies a commitment to fresh, Dutch produce and innovative, environmentally conscious dining.

We believe in the force of optimism and the strive to set our Dutch Cuisine to the world cuisine charts. We are much more than traditional in any sense of this word. We are the voice of the new Dutch food loving generation who celebrate the great potential of our country's produce and many other hidden talents within our tiny land.

This is the gastronomy of a new, smart world that brings how we eat and how we consume to a whole new level: being in harmony with the land and taking care of Earth. Simply put, in balance with nature.

Bolenius Restaurant was the first to receive a Green Michelin Star in Holland.

Fresh, pure and honest

We are focused on local, seasonal, honest food cooked with love and respect for the ingredients, all prepared at the highest gastronomical level.

Tremendous local Dutch produce: the highest quality sustainable fish, local meat and vegetables, many, many vegetables. Most are homegrown in the garden and greenhouse located right next to the restaurant at the Rembrandtpark.

Our gardener lovingly tends to the veggies and herbs grown in our own gardens bordering the restaurant. We use seasonal and fresh produce, straight from the earth to your plate.

High-end cuisine, great wines, nature
...and shared memories

In our restaurant you feel one with the nature! Once you enter this beautiful open space with big glass windows facing the Rembrandtpark, you feel as part of it. Our beautiful green oasis became even more part of the park with three large red pepper trees on the restaurant floor. Our terrace is at the water, with view to the park.
