

The background of the entire cover is a photograph of a herd of antelope, likely oryx, running across a vast, undulating sand dune. The scene is captured during the 'golden hour' of sunset or sunrise, with the sky and sand dunes bathed in a warm, orange-gold light. The antelope are in motion, kicking up small clouds of sand as they run from left to right. Their long, straight horns are clearly visible against the bright sky.

Flights and Transport

- To reach Windhoek, the capital city of Namibia, there are two primary options: self-driving or flying. If you choose to embark on a self-drive adventure, you'll have the flexibility to explore the picturesque landscapes along the way. The journey to Windhoek typically involves crossing the border from neighbouring countries, such as South Africa or Botswana. Ensure you have the necessary documents, including valid passports and driver's licenses, as well as any required permits for your vehicle. Familiarise yourself with the local road regulations and be prepared for long stretches of driving.
- Alternatively, flying to Windhoek is a convenient and time-efficient option. Numerous airlines offer flights to Windhoek, and it is advisable to book a flight departing after 3 pm on the day your tour ends to allow ample time for any unforeseen delays or last-minute activities. Whether you choose to self-drive or fly, Windhoek awaits with its vibrant culture and natural wonders.

Photography and Gear

It is not advisable to take photographs of border posts or military/ police posts. Doing so can lead to an unpleasant situation and even arrest. Always ask permission before taking a photograph of the local and any Namibia residents; it is a sign of respect. In some cases a small payment is expected. However some cultures believe that the camera steals their soul and we request that you respect and understand their beliefs.

It is advisable to bring the following camera equipment:

- 2 or 3 Camera bodies (a backup will mean peace of mind) with spare batteries.
- Long telephoto lens 400/500/600
- Medium telephoto lens 70-200 or equivalent
- Wide angle lens(es) for landscapes and hide photography
- A good sturdy tripod for landscapes and use around waterholes etc. in Etosha.
- Ground pod / Skimmer plate for low angle and star trail work is very handy.
- For long lenses we recommend using a Wimberley Gimbal head (or equivalent) and for landscapes a good ball head.
- Flash (Optional): Off-shoe cord / flash bracket / Better Beamer especially for Etosha waterholes)
- For some of the more difficult shots & flash work we will be using remote triggers. We recommend Pocket Wizard Plus III with
- camera and flash cables. The PW Plus III will trigger both camera and flash and therefore is our recommended choice here.
- Release cable and or intervalometers Canon TC80N3 for Star trail work. Nikon's have built-in intervalometers.
- Notebook or additional storage device.
