Responsibilities

- Lead user-centered design: Define user journeys, wireframes, interactive prototypes, and high-fidelity visual designs across web and mobile for educators, students, and healthcare professionals.
- Own design solutions end-to-end: From early discovery to final developer hand-off.
- You'll collaborate closely with product managers, developers, and stakeholders, ensuring designs are implemented as intended.
- Enhance the design system: Maintain and evolve clients design system in Figma, documenting components and design patterns for scalability and consistency
- Drive research & testing: Conduct user research, usability testing, A/B tests, and stakeholder interviews to gather insights and iterate designs accordingly.
- Advocate for accessibility: Apply WCAG standards and inclusive design best practices across all touchpoints.
- Present and align: Articulate design rationales and lead presentations to executives and cross-functional teams

Qualification

- 5+ years of UX/UI or digital product design experience, ideally in edtech, healthcare, or professional development.
- Proficient in Figma (or similar), Adobe Creative Suite, and prototyping tools.
- Strong portfolio showcasing end-to-end digital product work: flows, wireframes, prototypes, high-fi UI.
- Deep knowledge of UX methodologies (journey mapping, user research, testing) and modern UI patterns.
- Design systems experience: building component libraries, setting documentation standards, and ensuring brand alignment
- Understanding of accessibility, responsive design, and best practices.
- Excellent collaboration & communication skills, with ability to drive consensus and present clearly.
