Burger Fuel Worldwide (BFW) Independent Director Steps Down

BFW independent director John Pfannenbecker has stepped down from his position on the board of directors. John was appointed when the Franchise Brands collaboration agreement was in force but following the passing of Fred De Luca and the end of the Franchise Brands partnership, the board has accepted John's resignation as independent director.

The board thanks John for his service to BFW and wishes him well for the future. Franchise Brands is a 10% shareholder in BFW.
