BurgerFuel has announced the opening of their third Queensland restaurant this week, taking the total number of BurgerFuel outlets in Australia to six, and the global total to 70, with stores also located in New Zealand, the United Arab Emirates, Saudi Arabia, Egypt and Kuwait.

Closely following the opening of BurgerFuel Mermaid Beach on the Gold Coast and BurgerFuel Emporium in Brisbane, the new store is located in Victoria Point, a thriving, fast developing suburb of Brisbane.

BurgerFuel Victoria Point is situated in a busy new food precinct next to the Victoria Point Town Centre. Offering fresh, fast, delicious gourmet burgers made from the very best ingredients, for both eat-in dining and takeaway, the new BurgerFuel restaurant will be popular with local residents, workers and visitors to the picturesque suburb.

Craig Notman, General Manager of BurgerFuel Australia, comments, "We announced at the end of 2014, our plans to open five more restaurants in Australia before the end of the financial year. We're on track to achieve this following the opening of BurgerFuel Victoria Point, with the fifth under construction at present in the Brisbane suburb of Rosalie. This will take our Australian store total to seven".
