TRANSITIONAL SAFETY UNIT PROGRAM

Safe and stable housing is essential to support long-term recovery from a substance-use disorder (SUD). If housing is not immediately available, it can create a barrier to success in maintaining recovery and staying actively engaged in supportive services.

This program provides an interim place to call home while receiving supportive services. Through rental subsidies, we provide a studio or one bedroom apartments in Jefferson and Lewis Counties, security deposits, furnishings and turnover expenses associated with the unit, and supportive services/staff to aid the individual with sustained recovery.

To enroll in the program, a Single Point of Access for Adults (A-SPOA) application must be completed and sent to the SPOA Coordinator in your county. You can make a referral for yourself or a family member. Individuals must meet all eligibility required to be considered for enrollment.
