Community Guidelines: How we Engage

Welcome to our Heritage Adapts! discussion board. Our strength is the diversity of our perspectives and experiences unified by a common goal: adapting heritage sites and cultural practices to climate change. To keep Discussion Board spaces friendly, focused, and productive for everyone, here are a few simple guidelines:

- Be kind and respectful. We all come from different places and perspectives—let’s listen and learn from each other.
- Stay on topic. Each discussion board addresses a different dimension of adapting heritage sites and cultural practices to climate risks. Keep your posts relevant to the dimension being addressed by the board where you are posting. Posts not relevant to the topic of one board may be perfect for another!
- Share openly but thoughtfully. Your experiences and questions help us all grow, so please contribute but with a focus on help you actually need in your work or insights or opportunities you think may help others with theirs. .
- Keep it constructive. Aim to offer solutions, ideas, or helpful resources rather than just problems.
- No spam. This is a professional space for collaboration. Please don’t post spam content. Only Service Providers signed up to Heritage Adapts! may post about goods and service on offer (if relevant to the board). Otherwise, no advertising.
- Respect privacy. Don’t share personal or sensitive information about others without permission.
- Ask questions and be curious. This is a learning community—no question is too small or too big.
- Help keep the conversation flowing. Respond to others, tag colleagues who might have insights, and celebrate shared wins.

Thanks for being part of this global community working together to protect our shared heritage.
