Afternoon: Rehearsal at Ehrbarsaal Vienna

The construction of the Ehrbar Hall was commissioned by Friedrich Ehrbar from the architect Julius Stiefwieser in 1876. He laid the foundation stone on August 28, 1876 at Mühlgasse 28, in Vienna's 4th district. An acoustically perfect concert hall for around 400 people was built in the style of the Italian High Renaissance with Roman influence.
Friedrich Ehrbar had created a space for art, a space in which artists came together, enriched each other's creativity and passed on their work to the Viennese audience in the form of concerts. Above all Johannes Brahms, Pietro Mascagni, Anton Bruckner, Gustav Mahler, Béla Bartók, Max Reger, Arnold Schönberg and many more.
