

Circle K Donates $100,000 to the American Red Cross Following Fuel Day Event

Check Presented for California Wildfires Relief Efforts

Los Angeles – January 29, 2025 – Circle K presented the American Red Cross with a $100,000 donation to support relief and recovery efforts for California communities impacted by wildfires. The funds were raised in conjunction with Circle K's Fuel Day Pop-up event held on January 16 at Circle K locations across California, Washington and Oregon.

Yesterday's check presentation brought together senior leaders from Circle K and regional leadership from The American Red Cross. Among those present were Alex Miller, CEO of Circle K parent company Alimentation Couche-Tard; Mark Ostoits, Senior Vice President of Operations for Circle K's U.S. West region; and George Wilkins, Vice President of Operations for Circle K's West Coast Business Unit.

Leading The American Red Cross contingent were Sean Mahoney, Regional Chief Executive Officer, Southern California Region; Lois Beckman, Executive Director, Red Cross of Riverside County Chapter and Glenn Maddalon, Regional Chief Development Officer, Southern California.

This contribution reflects the combined efforts of Circle K's West Coast Business Unit and Global Franchise Team, to support the community during this urgent time.

"At Circle K, we always strive to be there for our customers and communities to make life a little easier, especially when disasters strike," said Mr. Wilkins. "We're proud of our team for rallying together during such a challenging time to support the extraordinary efforts of the American Red Cross. From hurricanes and floods, to wildfires, we remain committed to standing with those in need and aiding wherever we can."

"The American Red Cross and our partners are working around the clock to deliver comfort and care to communities impacted by the wildfires in California," said Mr. Mahoney. "Circle K has been a long-time partner with the Red Cross and is deeply committed to supporting communities in need. We are grateful to Circle K for this generous donation which enables us to offer food, shelter and other essential support to those on their path to recovery.”
