Consent for Gadolinium

It may be necessary to give you an injection of contrast medium called Gadolinium. The contrast provides the radiologist with as accurate scans as possible. Gadolinium is a very safe drug and adverse reactions to it are rare. Some of the possible side effects can be:

- Slightly metallic taste during the administration of the contrast
- Other reactions may include mild skin reactions
- Any medication, whether given in a hospital or clinic, carries with it the risk of adverse effects including anaphylaxis.

Please ask a staff member if you require further information.

	YES	NO
Are you allergic to any medications? Please List:
Do you have any kidney or liver disease, diabetes, high blood pressure or epilepsy? Please circle if yes.
Do you give your consent for us to administer this contrast if requested by the radiologist?
