WHO THE FLUFF IS BANDIT??

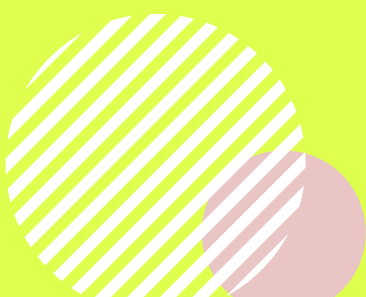

Bandit was a spirited Australian Cattle Dog with boundless energy and unwavering loyalty. Sadly, his early life was marked by mistreatment, resulting in deep-seated behavioral challenges.

His second owners sought help from Enoch to address his issues. Despite their best efforts, they decided to surrender Bandit to the training facility where Enoch worked. He stayed there until he could join their home.

In his new home, Bandit found joy in simple pleasures: cozying up on the sofa, showering his loved ones with licks, tearing apart boxes, and chasing frisbees. He had a strong herding instinct, often directed at Enoch's ankles.

At the training facility, Bandit was introduced to the jolly ball, a toy he could play with while wearing a muzzle. Enoch, noticing Bandit's interest, introduced him to Treibball, or "Urban Herding," replacing livestock with balls. This game reduced his ankle-nipping and provided a stimulating outlet. Playing fetch with the jolly ball also helped Bandit meet new people safely and quickly.

Bandit transformed our training approach, showing us the importance of recognizing and addressing each pet's unique needs. Our company proudly bears Bandit's name, honoring his legacy of patience, love, and understanding.

ENRICHMENT BASED DAYCARE AND BOARDING

At Bandit's Stay and Play, our enrichment-based daycare is designed to nurture the whole dog: mind, body, and spirit. We believe dogs deserve hobbies too—which is why we go beyond basic play by offering structured activities that build confidence, stimulate curiosity, and encourage healthy social skills. Each day includes a mix of mentally engaging games like treat puzzles, sniffaris, tea parties, physical outlets such as agility courses and group fetch, and emotional enrichment through co-regulated playgroups, cuddle breaks, and staff-led storytime. These purposeful experiences help reduce stress, prevent boredom, and support each dog's individual personality and needs. Our goal is to ensure every pup goes home not just tired, but fulfilled and happy.

You might be surprised, feeding a high-quality dog food doesn’t cost much more per day than lower-end brands. In fact, when you account for smaller portions, the daily difference is often just cents. And the benefits go beyond the bowl: healthier foods have been shown to reduce long-term vet bills, improve skin and coat health, and even lower grooming costs over your pet’s lifetime.

A 2020 study published in the Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association (JAVMA) found that dogs on high-quality diets had fewer chronic health issues and lower lifetime veterinary expenses.
