

Biography

Gaby Natale

Triple Emmy winning journalist, bestselling author, emcee and keynote speaker

Short Bio

Gaby Natale helps leaders and organizations see what others miss—and act on it before the rest of the world catches up.

A triple Daytime Emmy® Award-winning journalist, bestselling author, and globally sought-after keynote speaker, Gaby is known for translating vision into decisive leadership. Her work focuses on helping individuals and organizations spot hidden opportunities, break out of default thinking, and pioneer what's next—before it becomes obvious.

Gaby has built a career by consistently being ahead of the curve. She is the first Latina to win three consecutive Daytime Emmy® Awards and the first Hispanic woman published by HarperCollins Leadership. She brings that same clarity and foresight to the stage, where she is trusted to keynote, emcee, and moderate high-stakes events for Fortune 50 companies and global institutions.

A dynamic bilingual speaker and master emcee, Gaby has worked with brands including Microsoft, Procter & Gamble, Johnson & Johnson, Google, Walmart, PepsiCo, and Estée Lauder. She is known for commanding the room, elevating the conversation, and delivering insights leaders can immediately apply.

Gaby is also the founder of Menopausia.com, the first bilingual femtech platform focused on midlife reinvention. A breast cancer survivor and Susan G. Komen ambassador, she brings depth, credibility, and unmistakable presence to every audience.

WHY HER / WHY NOW

In a world chasing trends, Gaby Natale teaches leaders how to see what isn't trending yet—and move first.

Long Bio

Gaby Natale

Gaby Natale is a triple Daytime Emmy® Award-winning journalist, bestselling author, and globally sought-after leadership speaker who helps individuals and organizations pioneer what's next by seeing opportunity before it becomes obvious.

Her signature message challenges audiences to move beyond default thinking and reclaim their ability to see clearly—because no amount of hustle can lead to an opportunity you're blind to. Through compelling storytelling, sharp frameworks, and real-world insight, Gaby empowers leaders to spot hidden possibilities, make bold decisions, and lead ahead of the curve.

Gaby's career has been defined by firsts. She is the first Latina to win three consecutive Daytime Emmy® Awards and the first Hispanic woman author published by HarperCollins Leadership—milestones that reflect not just achievement, but vision. She brings this pioneering mindset to stages around the world, serving as a keynote speaker, master emcee, and moderator for Fortune 50 companies, global summits, and cultural institutions including the United Nations, the Kennedy Center, and the Emmy Awards.

Equally fluent in English and Spanish, Gaby is trusted by brands such as Microsoft, Procter & Gamble, Johnson & Johnson, Google, Walmart, PepsiCo, and Estée Lauder to deliver high-impact keynotes, host complex live events, and guide meaningful conversations with clarity, warmth, and authority. Her rare ability to combine gravitas with energy has made her a go-to choice for organizations seeking both inspiration and execution.

Beyond the stage, Gaby is the founder of Menopausia.com, the first bilingual femtech platform dedicated to women navigating perimenopause and menopause—an extension of her lifelong commitment to elevating overlooked conversations and underserved audiences. A breast cancer survivor and Susan G. Komen ambassador, she speaks with authenticity about resilience, reinvention, and conscious leadership.

Named one of People's 25 Most Powerful Latinas and a Woman of Influence by SUCCESS Magazine, Gaby has been featured in Forbes, CNN, NBC News, Univision, and BuzzFeed, and her work has reached more than 50 million viewers worldwide. Originally from Argentina and a proud U.S. citizen, she brings a global perspective, cultural intelligence, and fearless clarity to every room she enters.

Gaby doesn't teach people how to be more productive. She teaches them how to see—because the future belongs to those who spot it first.
