

Privacy complaint form

Use this form to submit a complaint about how your personal information has been handled by South Bank Corporation (SBC).

What is a privacy complaint?

A privacy complaint is a complaint about how SBC has handled your personal information.

Personal information means information or opinion about an identified individual or an individual who is reasonably identifiable from the information or opinion whether the information or opinion is true or not and whether the information or opinion is recorded in a material form or not.

Who can make a Complaint?

You can make a privacy complaint about how SBC has handled your own personal information.

You can also consent to someone else making the complaint on your behalf, for example:

- a parent on behalf of their child who is under 18 years
- someone you authorise to act for you, like a family member or lawyer.

Evidence of Identity

We may need you to provide evidence of your identity when you make a privacy complaint. Evidence of identity ensures that we are dealing with the right person and not disclosing your personal information to someone who is not authorised to receive it.

The type of documents people can provide as evidence of identity include passport, driver's licence, or birth certificate, but other documents might do just as well. If we need evidence of identity and you do not provide it with the complaint form, we will follow up with you to discuss your options. You can email documents, but physical copies of original documents must be certified as a true copy by a solicitor or barrister, justice of the peace, Notary Public, senior officer of the court, or other professional, including a doctor, senior police officer or pharmacist.

How to make a privacy complaint to SBC

A privacy complaint must be made on the privacy complaint form and submitted to the SBC for the attention of the Privacy Team.

Need help or advice about your Complaint?

Information about the complaints process and can be found at the SBC website.

The Information and Privacy Management team is available in office hours to discuss your privacy concerns and help you make a complaint. They can be contacted by emailing privacy@south-bank.net.au.

Privacy Collection Notice

SBC is collecting your personal information to manage your complaint. Your information will be used for purposes related to the management of your complaint and may also be used for administrative functions, performance improvement activities and reporting obligations. The information may need to be disclosed to third parties for the purpose of dealing with your complaint. The SBC will not otherwise disclose your personal information without consent unless required or authorised by law.
