

MEMBER SPOTLIGHT!

Wallace J. Bellamy
DMD, FACD, FICD, FPFA, CDC

President-Elect of the National Dental Association

A first-generation dentist whose passion for oral health began in high school, Dr. Bellamy was born in Queens, New York, and shaped by a childhood spent in diverse communities across New York, Alabama, South Carolina, Texas, Europe, and California—reflecting his father's career in the U.S. Air Force. These formative experiences fostered an early appreciation for cultural diversity and connection.

He earned his dental degree from Boston University School of Dentistry in 1989 and has operated a private practice in Elk Grove, California-just south of Sacramento-since 1993.

Dr. Bellamy views dentistry as essential to overall health, championing its potential to enhance quality of life through both the art and science of the profession. He deeply values the personal relationships he has cultivated with his patients and peers throughout his career.

His leadership within the dental community is extensive. He has served as President of the Sacramento District Dental Society, is one of 12 at- large Directors for the California Dental Association (CDA), and holds the position of Vice Regent for District 13-California of the International College of Dentists (ICD).

Dr. Bellamy's professional excellence is reflected in his Fellowships with the International College of Dentists, the American College of Dentists (ACD), and the Pierre Fauchard Academy. He is also a Certified Dental Consultant through the American Academy of Dental Consultants (AADC).
