

European Union Deforestation Regulation

About EU Deforestation Regulation

The European Union's Deforestation Regulation (EUDR) aims to ensure that products consumed within the EU do not contribute to global deforestation or forest degradation.

Effective from December 30, 2025, for most companies, the EUDR mandates that businesses placing certain commodities on the EU market or exporting them must demonstrate that these products are deforestation-free and comply with the legal frameworks of their countries of origin.

Who Must Comply with the EUDR?

The EUDR applies to a broad range of entities involved in the trade of specific commodities and their derivatives.

Operators: Any natural or legal person who, in the course of a commercial activity, places relevant products on the EU market or exports them.

Traders: Any person in the supply chain other than the operator who, in the course of a commercial activity, makes relevant products available on the EU market.

The regulation covers seven key commodities and their derived products:

CATTLE (including beef and leather)

COCOA (including chocolate)

COFFEE

OIL PALM (including palm oil and its derivatives)

RUBBER

SOYWOOD (including furniture, paper, and pulp products)

Reporting Requirements

Under the EUDR, companies are required to implement a due diligence system that includes

Data Collection: Gathering information on the commodity, including geolocation data of the land where it was produced.

Risk Assessment: Evaluating the risk of non-compliance with the deforestation-free requirement and relevant legislation.

Risk Mitigation: Implementing measures to mitigate any identified risks.

Companies must submit a due diligence statement through the EU's Information System before placing products on the market or exporting them. Additionally, they are required to publish an annual report detailing their due diligence system and its implementation.

How FRDM Supports EUDR Compliance

FRDM offers a comprehensive toolsets designed to assist you in meeting the EUDR's requirements:

Supply Chain Mapping

Map your entire supply chains, providing visibility into every tier and identifying potential risks associated with deforestation.

Risk Assessment Tools

Assess risks related to deforestation and legal non-compliance, allowing companies to prioritize areas that require immediate attention.

Data Collection and Management

FRDM facilitates the collection of necessary data, including geolocation information and supplier documentation, essential for the due diligence process.

Reporting Capabilities

Generate comprehensive reports to support their due diligence statements, ensuring transparency and readiness for audits by EU authorities.

FRDM: Your Key to Help Prevent Forest Degradation

At FRDM, we make supply chains transparent. Our platform maps from finished goods to raw materials and screens for risks at every tier. We monitor real-time trade flows, match suppliers against government watchlists, and help you comply with EUDR and international due diligence regulations—without relying on audits.
