

Week 15: Thursday 4 December 2025

Mr Andy - Principal

This week at Cambridge English School Mangaf was vibrant and full of enriching experiences across all phases.

We began by celebrating attendance certificates and pupil recognition awards, honoring consistent effort, achievement, and positive attitudes.

The Book Fair was a highlight, inspiring pupils to discover new stories and nurture a lifelong love for reading. Book Character Day added excitement and creativity, with pupils and staff showcasing imaginative costumes and enthusiastic participation.

Our youngest learners enjoyed an exciting trip to the Scientific Centre in Kuwait City, exploring science and nature through hands-on activities that sparked curiosity and wonder. Academic and enrichment programs continued strongly, including the Islamic and Music Competition, celebrating talent, teamwork, and cultural appreciation.

Parents also attended an informative MyU Workshop, strengthening home-school collaboration and ensuring smooth communication through our digital platforms.

It was an uplifting week that reflected our vision of developing lifelong learners in a caring, dynamic environment.

Thank you for your continued support in making Cambridge English School Mangaf a place of growth and joy!

EYFS NEWS & PRIMARY NEWS

Ms. Gemeela – Head of EYFS & Primary

Our KG and Reception pupils had an amazing time at the Scientific Center this week, discovering fascinating exhibits and learning more about the world around them. Early Years has also been full of excitement for Book Week, with today's dress-up activities being a highlight!

In Primary, pupils are getting ready for next week's exams. Teachers have been revising key concepts and helping pupils feel confident. The exam schedule is available on Teams and my, please take a moment to review it. During exams, punctuality and attendance are very important; absences should only occur with a medical certificate.

We encourage parents to keep nurturing a love of reading at home. It's wonderful to see pupils' joy when exploring new stories!

Wishing all our pupils the very best in their preparations; we're looking forward to a successful and rewarding week ahead.

SECONDARY NEWS

Mr. Alfred – Head of Secondary

This week in Secondary has been both busy and rewarding! Pupils completed assessments in ICT, PE, and English listening, showcasing their knowledge and skills.

At the same time, focused revision sessions have been preparing students for theory exams starting Sunday, 7 December.

A major highlight was our 4th CES University Expo, where leading local universities and education providers engaged with students, offering valuable guidance for future career choices. We also celebrated Book Week with a vibrant book fair in the library, giving pupils the chance to choose books that spark their interest.

The week ended on a creative note with Character Day, as pupils and staff dressed as their favorite book characters, bringing joy and imagination to our school community. These activities reflect our commitment to academic excellence and holistic development.

We wish all our pupils the very best in their upcoming exams!
