

Uniquely Connected

Rice grown in northern California's Sacramento Valley shares a unique connection to the economy, environment and ecosystem.

Getting California-grown rice from the field to your table takes a workforce.

- 2,500 family farmers and millers
- 25,000 rice-related jobs
- Small businesses & communities within eight rice growing counties
- $5 billion to California's economy

Drying, Storage & Mills

Trucking & Commerce

Farmers

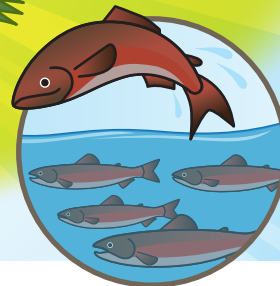

Ag-based communities

Wildlife

Birds

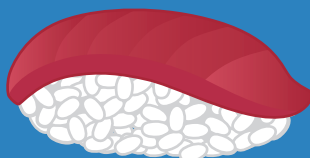

Salmon

Every acre of planted rice also benefits 230 wildlife species.

- Threatened & endangered species like the Giant Gartersnake
- Millions of waterbirds traveling the Pacific Flyway
- New science shows rice fields may hold the key in helping the state's dwindling salmon population

California Rice is used in virtually every roll of sushi made in America.

California Rice
It's in our Nature

CalRice.org