Continue

50 First Dates is a romantic comedy film released in 2004 by Peter Segal, starring Adam Sandler and Drew Barrymore as Henry Roth and Lucy Whitmore. The movie tells the story of Henry, a womanizing marine veterinarian, who falls for Lucy, an art teacher with short-term memory loss. Each day, Lucy forgets him, but Henry resolves to win her over again. The film was a commercial success, grossing $120.8 million at the box office. It received mixed reviews but marked the second collaboration between Sandler and Barrymore, after The Wedding Singer and before Blended.When she sleeps, she wakes up every morning thinking it is Sunday, October 13. To spare her from the trauma of her condition, Marlin and Doug re-enact her birthday daily. Despite Sue's warning, Henry tries to get Lucy to have breakfast with him several times, but when he unintentionally offends her one day he follows her home to apologize. There, he meets Marlin and Doug who instruct him to not speak to Lucy at breakfast. Heeding their specific orders, Henry arranges various daily schemes to meet Lucy on the road, most of the time managing to successfully impress her over multiple "first" dates and "chance" encounters. Later, Marlin and Doug permit Henry to continue encountering her when they discover Lucy regularly sings the Beach Boys' "Wouldn't It Be Nice" in her painting studio just on the days Henry managed to meet her. One day at breakfast, Lucy notices a police officer writing a ticket because of her expired license plates. With the ruse exposed, she is distressed to learn that her friends and family have maintained the charade for so long. However, while analyzing her reaction, Henry surmises that her strongest reactions are to feeling betrayed by her loved ones, rather than the actual memory loss. He devises a new strategy to let her know the truth by creating a video with her friends to calmly explain the situation and, rather than continuing her pre-crash routine, they plant the video in her room with a note to play it upon awakening. The strategy succeeds, allowing Lucy to emotionally process her situation and simultaneously be updated on current events, including her relationship with Henry. The couple's relationship blossoms via this method, with Lucy enjoying every "first kiss", and they continue to refine the process while enduring some humorous setbacks. When Lucy eventually discovers that Henry has abandoned 10 years of planning for his research study to help her manage her condition she decides that they need to end their romantic relationship and breaks up with him. Henry reluctantly helps her destroy her journal entries about their time together, effectively erasing it from her memory. Weeks later, as Henry prepares to leave for his research study, Marlin informs him that Lucy is teaching an art class at a brain-injury institute. As a parting gift, he gives Henry a Beach Boys CD; and as Henry pilots the boat and cries while listening to the CD he suddenly realizes that, since Lucy only sang "Wouldn't It Be Nice" on days when they "met", Marlin's gift may be his way of hinting that Lucy had new learned memory retention. Henry hurries to Lucy's class, but despite not remembering him she happily reveals that she dreams of him nightly, and shows him dozens of portraits that she has painted of him, and they reconcile. Sometime later, she awakens and plays the tape marked "Good Morning Lucy", which now ends with her and Henry's wedding.50 First Dates is a 2004 American romantic comedy film directed by Peter Segal and starring Adam Sandler and Drew Barrymore. The movie was released on February 13, 2004. The story revolvs around Lucy Whitmore played by Drew Barrymore a woman who suffers from short-term memory loss due to a car accident. She wakes up every day thinking it's the day of her accident and reliving the same eight hours over and over. Each day is a new chance for love to find her, as she meets Henry Roth played by Adam Sandler at a diner on her birthday every year. They develop strong feelings for each other but struggle with their relationship due to Lucy's condition. The produer of the film was Steve Golin along with Steve Hargrave and Scott Aversano and it was realeased under Columbia Pictures and Happy Madison Productions. The soundtrack of the movie contains a variety of cover songs including "Lovesong" by The Cure and a reggae-style cover of Israel Kamakawiwo'ole's "Somewhere Over the Rainbow/What a Wonderful World". ========== 50 First Dates featured a variety of popular artists and bands, including Thompson Twins, Seal, and Bryan Ferry. The soundtrack also included tracks by Wyclef Jean, Eve, Ziggy Marley, and the Black Eyed Peas. The film received mixed reviews from critics, with some praising its uplifting story but criticizing excessive crude humor and drug references. Roger Ebert gave it three out of four stars, saying it was a lovable entertainment that revealed Adam Sandler's warm side. However, Rex Reed called the film "stupid" and "unfunny", singling out offensive jokes about brain damage. Despite the mixed reviews, 50 First Dates was a commercial success, earning over $500,000 in certifications from the RIAA. The film also spawned several awards, including Best On-Screen Team at the 2004 MTV Movie Awards for Adam Sandler and Drew Barrymore. A condition known as anterograde amnesia, which affects one's ability to form new memories after brain damage, was featured prominently in the film. Researchers have identified that damage to the hippocampus is a key factor in determining the severity of this condition. ========== Researchers have long been fascinated by the depiction of amnesia in film, particularly in the movie 50 First Dates, which portrays a rare and complex condition. According to clinical neuropsychologist Sallie Baxendale, this type of portrayal is at odds with the actual causes of amnesic syndromes, which are usually linked to neurological or psychiatric conditions such as stroke, brain infection, or neurosurgery. Amnesia resulting from external physical trauma, like a car crash, is extremely rare. However, there have been documented cases where individuals have developed anterograde amnesia after experiencing traumatic brain injuries, including Michelle Philpots, a British woman who suffered two motor vehicle collisions in 1985 and 1990. Her condition led to significant memory loss, including forgetting everyday tasks like photocopying documents. In 2010, researchers studied another woman who developed a similar type of memory impairment after a car crash. While her short-term memory was affected, she showed improvement in recall for tasks performed the previous day, which may have been influenced by prior knowledge of the film's plot. More recently, two individuals with anterograde amnesia were discovered, one of whom wakes up thinking it is March 14, 2005, due to a dental procedure, while another believes every day is October 15, 2014. An experimental program at the Hebrew Home of Riverdale, Bronx, has been inspired by 50 First Dates. Residents with early dementia watch a video featuring comforting messages and reminders from family members, which may help improve their condition. The program's creator, Robert Abrams, sees this as an innovative approach to addressing amnesia-like conditions.50 First Dates Looks Like Now. Looper. Retrieved December 7, 2024. ^ "Beloved Six Flags walrus passes away". ABC7 News. Vallego, California. June 30, 2015. Retrieved March 21, 2025. ^ Harris, Dana (October 29, 2002). "Col Pix plants 'Kisses'". Variety. Archived from the original on May 2, 2022. Retrieved November 1, 2020. ^ a b Russell, Jamie (October 28, 2014). "50 First Dates — Peter Segal". BBC. Archived from the original on October 18, 2020. Retrieved November 1, 2020. ^ a b Harris, Dana (December 8, 2002). "Columbia puckers up for 'Kisses'". Variety. Archived from the original on May 1, 2022. Retrieved November 1, 2020. ^ a b Slnha-Roy, Iya (February 18, 2019). "50 First Dates wasn't originally set in Hawaii — and had a completely different ending". Entertainment Weekly. Retrieved November 1, 2020. ^ "50 First Dates – Credits". Turner Classic Movies. Archived from the original on November 7, 2020. Retrieved November 1, 2020. ^ Jacobs, Matthew (May 22, 2014). "Why Drew Barrymore Loves Making Movies With Adam Sandler". Entertainment. The Huffington Post. Archived from the original on September 7, 2017. Retrieved September 19, 2017. ^ "50 First Dates". CinemaReview. Archived from the original on November 23, 2018. Retrieved November 22, 2018. ^ a b "A LocationsHub Movie Marathon: Escape to Hawaii". LocationsHub. Archived from the original on February 2, 2017. Retrieved January 23, 2017. ^ "HUKILAU CAFE". Retrieved September 2, 2023. ^ "Oahu Movie Locations". Retrieved September 2, 2023. ^ "50 First Dates Filming Locations (2004)". April 4, 2021. Retrieved September 2, 2023. ^ "GDH □□□□□□□ 5 □□□□□□□□□□□□ □□□□□ □□□□□□-□□□□□□ (i-dle) □□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□ 50 First Dates" [GDH launches 5 new projects, watch out for Nadech-Minnie (i-dle) in a new interpretation of 50 First Dates]. The Standard. August 8, 2025. Retrieved August 9, 2025. ^ "50 First Dates □□□□□□□□□□□□ GDH □□□□□ □□□ '□□□□□□-□□□□□□' □□□□□□□□" [50 First Dates Thai version GDH remake featuring Nadech and Minnie]. Prachachat. August 8, 2025. Retrieved August 9, 2025. ^ "American album certifications – Soundtrack – 50 First Dates". Recording Industry Association of America. Retrieved March 9, 2022. ^ Patrizio, Andy (April 7, 2004). "50 First Dates Due On June 15". IGN. Archived from the original on May 19, 2023. Retrieved May 19, 2023. ^ "50 First Dates (2004)". Rotten Tomatoes. Fandango. February 13, 2004. Archived from the original on March 25, 2010. Retrieved July 10, 2020. ^ "50 First Dates reviews". Metacritic. Archived from the original on May 1, 2022. Retrieved July 21, 2019. ^ "50 FIRST DATES (2004) A-". CinemaScore. Archived from the original on December 20, 2018. ^ Scott, A.O. (February 13, 2004). "FILM REVIEW; A Love That's Forever, If Only for a Day". New York Times. Archived from the original on July 22, 2023. Retrieved April 26, 2013. ^ Ebert, Roger (February 13, 2004). "50 First Dates". Chicago Sun-Times. Archived from the original on January 21, 2021. Retrieved January 29, 2021. ^ Reed, Rex (February 24, 2004). "Wish I Could Forget 50 First Dates". The New York Observer. Archived from the original on September 15, 2020. Retrieved July 21, 2020. ^ Bonos, Lisa (November 5, 2015). "Drew Barrymore and Adam Sandler, professional soul mates". The Washington Post. Archived from the original on October 15, 2018. Retrieved October 15, 2018. ^ Smith, Christine N. (July 28, 2014). "Retrograde memory for public events in mild cognitive impairment and its relationship to anterograde memory and neuroanatomy". Neuropsychology. 28 (6): 959–972. doi:10.1037/neu0000117. ISSN 1931-1559. PMC 4227913. PMID 25068664. ^ Baxendale, Sallie (December 18, 2004). "Memories aren't made of this: amnesia at the movies". BMJ. 329 (7480): 1480–1483. doi:10.1136/bmj.329.7480.1480. PMC 535990. PMID 15604191. ^ "The woman with amnesia whose true story inspired 50 First Dates". Cosmopolitan. January 19, 2017. Retrieved December 17, 2023. ^ "Stuck in 1994, and more tales of extreme memory loss". NBC News. August 16, 2010. Retrieved December 17, 2023. ^ Christine N. Smith; Jennifer C. Frascino; Donald L. Kripke; Paul R. McHugh; Glenn J. Treisman; Larry R. Squire (May 2010). "Losing memories overnight: a unique form of human amnesia". Neuropsychologia. 48 (10): 2833–40. doi:10.1016/j.neuropsychologia.2010.05.025. PMC 2914200. PMID 20493889. ^Henry and Lucy ended up staying together in the movie 50 First Dates, but the film still had a sad ending when you think about their future relationship. ========== Henry met Lucy at a café in Hawaii, and they hit it off right away. After Henry's cheesy pickup line, Lucy agreed to meet him again at the same place the next day. However, things took a turn when Lucy woke up every morning thinking it was March 14th, 2005, and couldn't remember anything about her life or Henry. ========== What made things worse was that Lucy wasn't interested in Henry; she was actually annoyed by his antics. As time passed, it was revealed that Lucy suffered from anterograde amnesia, a rare condition where she could not form new memories.Lucy suffers from anterograde amnesia caused by brain damage or disease, making her unable to create new memories after a car accident about a year ago. As a result, she relives the same day repeatedly, and her family and community avoid confronting her about it to spare her the pain. However, Adam Sandler's Henry is determined to win her over and eventually dates Lucy. Despite their initial success, things become complicated as Lucy struggles to cope with her condition. She breaks off with Henry, but he decides to stay with her, reminding her of their relationship daily through home videos. The film ends on a seemingly happy note with Henry and Lucy together, but the reality is more complex. With no cure for Lucy's condition, Henry must remind her every day about new experiences, which becomes increasingly difficult as their memories accumulate. As they age, so do the challenges they face, including bad moods and fights. Ultimately, 50 First Dates glosses over the difficulties of life, presenting an unrealistic happy-ever-after scenario. The movie follows Henry's journey from being a man afraid of commitment to finding love with Lucy. Despite her condition, their chemistry is undeniable, but the film's portrayal of their relationship raises questions about the practicality of their situation. As Lucy and Henry navigate their love, they must confront the harsh realities of life and the limitations of Lucy's condition. ==========50 First Dates, een romantische komedie uit 2004 met Adam Sandler en Drew Barrymore, werd gedeeltelijk opgenomen in Hawaï. De film begint met Lucy Whitmore, gespeeld door Drew Barrymore, die lijdt aan Goldfield's Syndrome, een fictieve vorm van amnesie waarbij ze elke dag van haar leven verliest.50 First Dates is a hit romantic comedy that started on February 13th, 2004, and has been loved by many since then. The movie stars Drew Barrymore as Lucy Whitmore, who suffers from amnesia, alongside Adam Sandler playing Henry Roth, who falls in love with her every day to remind her of their relationship. The film was a huge success because the on-screen duo of Sandler and Barrymore are excellent actors. They have starred together in other films like The Wedding Singer and Blended. In an interview with HuffPost, Barrymore told Sandler that they need to work together and find something they both love. She also shared how the script evolved during production. The film had a great cast, including Lusia Strus as Alexa, Henry's assistant. Although she looks very different today, compared to her character in 50 First Dates, which wore an androgynous costume with braids around her head. In an interview with Bustle, director Peter Segal discussed how the movie tackled gay humor and how it might not appeal to modern audiences. He also shared that the character of Alexa was often targeted with jokes about her gender. Strus has gone on to have a successful career in TV series and films like Modern Family, Good Behavior, Claws. In 50 First Dates, Adam Sandler plays Henry Roth, a veterinarian living in Hawaii. Henry falls for Lucy, a girl who suffers from short-term memory loss after a car accident. The movie follows their love story as Henry tries to win her heart every day, given her condition. Their first meeting is special, and they immediately hit it off. However, when Lucy's mom tells Henry about her condition, he's confused. To help Lucy remember the previous day, her family and friends prepare everything for the next morning just like it was the day of the accident.Fifty First Dates is a story about Henry, who falls in love with Lucy, who suffers from short-term memory loss. Every day, Lucy wakes up not remembering the previous day. Henry makes her videos about their life together to help her remember. Despite this, Lucy doesn't remember much of anything. ========== ========== 50 First Dates is now available on various platforms. The movie, starring Adam Sandler, Drew Barrymore, and Rob Schneider, is rated PG-13 and has a runtime of approximately 1 hour and 39 minutes. It was released in 2004 and received a user score of 69 out of 100 on TMDb. Looking forward to seein everyone at the meeting tomorow and discussin our strategies, Adam Sandler had some behind-the-scenes stories from his film "50 First Dates". He revealed that some of the most memorable scenes in the movie were not part of the original script. According to Adam, all those funny moments were a result of improvisation during filming, particularly at the café where Henry and Lucy would spend time together. The morning sun rises over Riverdale, casting a warm glow on residents living with dementia. As part of the Hebrew Home's program, family members create personalized videos to help them recall vital information. While this practice may seem sentimental, it raises questions about its effectiveness and potential alternatives. Adam Sandler's 2004 film "50 First Dates" tells the story of Lucy, a woman suffering from Goldfield Syndrome, a fictional condition that causes her to forget daily events. However, in reality, the disease is modeled after anterograde syndrome, which affects short-term memory. The film's portrayal of amnesia shares similarities with real-life cases, such as a woman who suffered from amnesia after two car accidents and believed it was still 1994. As technology advances, disc formats have given way to digital media platforms. Blu-ray discs, launched in 2006 by Sony, eventually won the format war, becoming the dominant high-definition format. The success of Blu-ray can be attributed to its impressive film library and implementation on the PlayStation 3. "50 First Dates" was one of the early adopters, released on Blu-ray for early adopters. ==========