HOW IS IT DONE

Timbertec is a photo imaging process that involves a physical reaction between special inks and the base coating. Under the controlled conditions of heat and pressure, photographic images are fused directly into the special base coating. The inks penetrate the full depth of the coating which creates a natural long lasting timber effect. This process is not an overlay or laminate – it becomes part of the paint coating so will not peel or flake overtime.

GUARANTEE

Timbertec is covered by a 10 year manufactures guarantee which covers correctly specified and applied materials that have been maintained in accordance with AS/NZ 3715. Any warranties must be applied for in writing and are subject to approval regarding application and location.
