BIOGRAPHY

Parisa Diba is a California Certified Interior Designer, CID #7476, with over 20 years of experience in residential and commercial projects. Her design path began in 2001, when she started learning drafting and architectural concepts directly from her architect brother, later combining formal education with hands-on industry experience.

Over the years, she has worked with interior design studios and architectural firms, contributing to projects from early design and planning through construction and completion. Her experience extends beyond interiors to exterior and landscape design, allowing each property to be considered as a whole. She brings both creative vision and practical knowledge to every stage of the design process.

In 2020, she launched her own firm and now leads a team focused primarily on residential projects. Based in Orange County, she serves clients throughout Southern California and across the United States.
