

Introducing Lev V'Limud

Of Heart and Home

On a sprawling corner lot in the heart of town sits an inviting red-brick building. Like a pocket of peace amid the daily hum, its wide windows catch the sunlight and sounds of joy drift from the fenced-in yard. If you were to step inside you'd discover something magical—a world of purpose, progress, and heart. This is Lev V'Limud: a revolutionary concept in care for children with ASD.

Redefining Futures

"I had this dream," shares Mrs. Chavy Armon, "to open a center completely tailored to the needs of these children. A place where everything is built for them, not around them." Mrs. Armon needs no introduction. With over 30 years of experience in special education, she's guided children from across the spectrum and throughout every stage of development. She has a wealth of hands-on experience in various therapy modalities for children with special needs at all levels, and her passion has only deepened over the years. "I want to take the best of what's out there from all of my experiences and bring them together into a dedicated, one-of-a-kind facility, where every child can succeed on their level."

Welcome to Lev V'Limud

Under Mrs. Armon's direction, Lev V'Limud offers a warm, professional, whole-child approach, with thoughtfully designed spaces and a Yiddishkeit-rich curriculum. Targeted therapy will infuse ABA goals with the warmth and connection of Floortime, supporting each child's growth in a loving environment. The facility boasts a state-of-the-art gym, a specially designed, fenced-in playground, and a fully equipped Snoezelen sensory room where children can decompress, explore, and express themselves. It's their space, built with intention.

Laying the Groundwork

Mrs. D'voiry Loriner is the perfect partner to help bring this vision to life. With a Masters in special education and years of administrative experience in the field, she is also the mother of a child on the spectrum. "I can relate to the frustration of constantly feeling like you need to advocate for your child, even when they're in a specialized setting," says Mrs. Loriner. "At Lev V'Limud, we want you to feel supported and informed about your child's progress." As administrator, Mrs. Loriner will oversee all logistical aspects of the center, while actively contributing to therapy planning. "We want parents to understand that we have big dreams, but we also have financial backing. We have a plan." And as far as the challenge of navigating the red tape of insurance referrals and approvals, Mrs. Loriner says, "We're here for you. We know the system and have the experience to guide you through every step of the process.”

The Heart of Progress

“In all of my years, I’ve never met a child who couldn’t reach new milestones,” Mrs. Armon affirms. The individualized plan for every child will foster skill building, and tangible, trackable growth, all in a loving atmosphere with warm support. The curriculum will be built around Yiddishkeit, incorporating tefilla and bringing excitement for each parsha and upcoming yom tov. Children will participate in group sessions on their developmental level, encouraging peer interaction alongside one-on-one floortime and ABA therapy. Experienced supervisors and BCBA’s, jointly certified in DIR/Floortime, will ensure sessions are productive, progress-focused, and relationship-based. Staff training will take place twice a month, and parents will have access to their child’s plan and progress.

A Path Forward

“We’re deeply grateful to be in a position to change lives, not only for these children, but for their families as well,” says Mrs. Loriner. With an early start time and an on-site, afternoon program, Lev V’Limud offers families valuable hours of support. But beyond that, it offers something far more meaningful: a unified team of experienced, licensed professionals who believe in each child’s potential and know how to help them reach it. In Mrs. Armon’s words: “Lev V’Limud is so much more than a center or program. It’s a home,”

Home is safe.

Home is warm, familiar, and inviting.

At Lev V’Limud, children are truly seen. They’re cared for with warmth, guided with purpose, and supported in a space that is joyful, secure, and built for growth.
