

AEONrv Launches AI-Powered Ownership Platform, Bringing 24/7 Vehicle Intelligence and Community to Off-Grid RVing

New app introduces real-time, rig-specific AI support, intelligent trip planning, and a verified owner network, redefining the RV ownership experience.

RENO, Nev., May 5, 2026 — AEONrv today launched the AEONrv App, an AI-powered ownership platform that transforms how customers interact with their vehicles long after purchase. Built on the Grover platform, the app delivers 24/7, rig-specific technical support, intelligent trip planning, and a private, verified owner network, all in one place.

Known as a category disruptor for its electric cabin, off-grid, all-wheel-drive recreational vehicles, AEONrv is now extending its high-tech engineering stack beyond the vehicle itself. The platform addresses a long-standing industry gap: the disconnect between manufacturers and owners after the sale.

“The relationship shouldn’t end when a customer drives off the lot. That’s when it actually begins,” said Jim Ritchie, CEO of AEONrv. “Owners told us they want faster answers, personalized to their exact build, and a way to connect with others who truly understand off-grid travel. This platform delivers both, instantly.”

From Owner's Manual to Intelligent System

Where traditional RV ownership relies on static manuals and dealer support, the AEONrv App lets owners ask questions in plain language and get step-by-step answers grounded in their vehicle's actual configuration. That includes everything from interpreting error codes to calculating off-grid runtime to walking through seasonal maintenance like winterization.

If an issue requires human support, the app automatically escalates the request to AEONrv's Reno-based service team, transferring the full conversation for seamless continuity.

A Connected Ecosystem for Modern Exploration

The app also introduces a new layer of connectivity between owners. A shared Trophy Map allows users to pin and discover vetted off-grid locations, routes, and campsites, curated by other AEONrv drivers. Because the platform understands the exact capabilities of each vehicle, including size, clearance, and off-grid capacity, it can recommend routes and destinations tailored to what each rig can safely handle.

Access to the network is restricted to verified AEONrv owners, creating a signal-rich environment for knowledge sharing without the noise of public forums.

Direct-to-Consumer Meets Direct-to-Community

AEONrv's direct-to-consumer model, combined with in-house manufacturing in Reno, enables a level of connectivity rarely seen in the RV industry. Every owner is known, every vehicle is documented, and every piece of feedback flows directly back to the team that built it. This structure makes the app's closed ecosystem possible and ensures that support, data, and community remain tightly integrated.

The platform also includes a built-in referral system, allowing owners to introduce new customers and expand the network organically.

Continuing a Pattern of Category Innovation

The AEONrv App builds on a product platform that has already positioned the company as a category disruptor. AEONrv vehicles are built more like yachts than traditional RVs, made with fiberglass reinforced panels and a fully electric cabin (no propane) with integrated solar and lithium power systems. With the introduction of software-defined ownership, AEONrv is now bringing the same level of innovation to the experience of using and maintaining the vehicle.
