Matthew Wong, a painter early in his career, died (/art-news/news/matthew-wong-painter-dead-13336/) last week at age 35. The artist cited figures like Edvard Munch, Shitao, Xu Wei, Lee Lozano, Vincent van Gogh, and Alex Katz, among others, as influences for his mesmeric landscapes. Below is a selection of his recent works and images from his solo debut at Karma, New York, in 2018.
