

3 Missions of Sacred Gynarchy

My mission with the Devidasa Sacred Gynarchy has several parts.

1. To provide a path for men to find real purpose in their lives, which may currently be lacking. I will train men to become sincere, evolved male Gynarchists who practice selfless service (Seva) and find both pleasure and profound meaning on this path.
2. For Women to feel safe and cared for, even in the presence of men. I will create physical spaces where women can be around men, served well by men, and feel entirely safe and sincerely respected (and even worshipped) by men.
3. To offer an alternative to Abrahamic religions while fostering community and connection. Through education and satsang, I will free more and more people from the damage of a patriarchal "god," and show them that their Mother exists and opens Her arms to them that they may return home.

Part One: Why begin with men?

In a movement focused on women, why have I chosen to make it my mission to deprogram, educate and train men?

Some women seem to think if we simply ignore men and disconnect from them, they will go away. Or maybe they will somehow learn to respect us through our rejection of them.

I believe men are lost, flailing and desperately in need of women's guidance. They are not doing well. I cannot bear to leave them behind as more and more women discover their independence and even their divinity. If we do so, men will drag all of humanity down with them. It is in the best interest of a peaceful and thriving world to lead and guide them and help them advance spiritually.

One of my major goals in this movement is to correct and heal the relationship between the sexes. I cannot do that without first addressing men and the ways in which they were programmed through patriarchy. I have taken it upon myself to become the guiding light for males in a society that gives them a damaging start, stunts them in all ways, and keeps them in an unevolved state. Many men understand how patriarchy harms them and even destroys their lives and relationships. I want to provide a place for those men to turn and find peace and direction.

If you are a man who has been disheartened or a little frightened by the way women have begun abandoning the opposite sex (even if you can empathize with the sentiment), and you feel you need the direction and love of women in your life, you can find it with us. A Living Goddess offers unending love to open your heart wide, with an intensity that you may never have experienced. Once you find Her you will feel an immediate pull and finally be able to relax into Her power. You will not be alone, denied a female presence in your life.

Part Two: Where are these spaces for women?

My goal is to purchase properties and create "Hives." These are community centers where men can be trained in Seva, and women can come to experience life outside of patriarchy. They will be a free place to spend time and relax and be cared for, create, and connect with others. This is much needed in the current climate of backlash against feminism and women in general. Every Hive will be a sanctuary, where they can be held in community and recharge their batteries.

We need to raise approximately three million dollars to purchase land and create the infrastructure for our first Hive resort. I have created The Devidasa Sacred Gynarchy as a not-for-profit organization so that our community members can make tax-deductible donations.

The first Hive will consist of the Devi Temple, a consecrated space built partially underground, for the daily worship of Devi and the Living Goddesses of the Sacred Gynarchy and for meditation and rituals. There will also be a Mother House which is to be a central training center and meeting space, surrounded by at least 100 acres of forested land and a dozen small retreat cabins for women, created sustainably and off-grid. Close to each of the retreat cabins will be the accompanying servitor cabins to house the men living and training with us in a monastic-like environment. We will also create a members-only RV park so solo women travelers can have a free place to park and enjoy the peace and safety of our small Gynarchy, attending events in the Mother House and visiting our Devi Temple.

We will grow gardens and orchards on the property to help feed our congregation with twice-daily fresh meals and create income with any surplus.

Included on the property will be a women's only bath house with saunas, and a steam room, and cold plunges, as well as a massage room where our female members can be pampered and spend time healing from the stress of the outside world.

Also included on the property will be our funerary garden with a safe and legal human composting facility for our community members' end-of-life proceedings. Their remains can be made into compost to feed our trees and flowers in the funerary garden or can be given to families to follow the wishes of the deceased. We will keep a library of "Books of Life" created by community members to commemorate the highlights of their existence on this planet. Guests will be able to peruse the books and learn about each individual who has passed through.

The Mother House will contain a small general store to sell member-made and local goods, as well as lending library of books related to Gynarchy so those staying or living in the Hive can educate themselves while here. And we will have a small theater to show movies and shows that present images of women's power.

The Hive will offer longer stays for artists in residence - women who elect to live and create within the Hive for one to three months and leave behind some of the beauty and intrigue of their creative works, be they paintings and drawings, sculpture, books, textiles, murals, music, or films. We will offer female artists an opportunity to relax and create, contributing to the richness of our spaces, without having to worry about rent, food, or any of the basics.

Part Three: What is this alternative?

Whether you are currently deconstructing, or if you left the church long ago, you will find a home here. More people than ever are becoming disenchanted with the Abrahamic religions because of their hypocrisy as well as the harm they cause in the world. Many apostates long for a path that offers them a profoundly meaningful spiritual philosophy that makes sense, and an ethical community of like minds. Take some time to read the Devi Doctrine and familiarize yourself with our beliefs. See if they resonate with you. If so, you may have found your path.

We can help in the process of deconstruction, and with breaking any covenants with an abusive "god," or welcome you to a spiritual community even if you have never been a part of one in the past. You need only remember Devi, the Mother, and you will find yourself welcomed into Her loving arms. We hope you will find peace and purpose with us. Even atheists may find our ways make sense and are not in conflict with the natural world or science. In fact, we embrace evidence-based approaches to all aspects of our lives.
