

Fitness Professional

The Rady Jewish Community Centre (RJCC) is currently seeking a dynamic individual to join its team as a Fitness Professional.

There are three primary components to this role:

Fitness Staff – In this role you will monitor the fitness center and spend time engaging with members. Tasks include new member orientations, tours, and various duties around the facility.

Personal Trainer – In this role you will engage in one-on-one training sessions with clients. Trainers are responsible for managing their appointment bookings and designing safe and effective workouts for their clients. Trainers may also engage in partner and small group training sessions.

Fitness Instructor – Fitness classes include a variety of strength and cardio based classes such as TRX, circuit, and bootcamp style classes delivered in a group setting. Further opportunity in group fitness may be explored, depending on the candidates experience and qualifications.

The ideal candidate will possess the following:

- Professional, friendly, and organized with experience in a customer service role
- Completion of/working towards an undergraduate degree in Kinesiology or equivalent
- Demonstrated experience in designing appropriate exercise programs for a variety of populations including athletes, youth, those living with chronic illness and general population
- Ability to prescribe corrective exercises to improve posture and movement
