

M&A Insights Q1 2022

HUMAN CAPITAL INDUSTRY UPDATE

M&A TRENDS

While previously negotiated deals closed on time, announcement activity diminished due to the uncertainty created by geopolitical conditions. Additional headwinds including inflation concerns, rising interest rates, and public market volatility further hindered the development of active deals in the space.

Going forward, however, the Human Capital industry remains poised for growth; forecasts are projecting annual growth rates of nearly 10% through 2024 within the industry, driven in large part by the increasingly consistent need for Human Capital Management ('HCM") technology to support evolving roles. The historically tight labor market has increased the importance of attractive employee benefits and wellbeing initiatives. Moreover, the enhanced focus on normalizing mental, physical, and financial health needs, as highlighted through the pandemic, has spurred a growing priority for companies to retain and attract talent through wellbeing solutions.

HR outsourcing and healthcare were the most active sectors during Q1 2022, with 40 and 33 deals, respectively. HR outsourcing continues to drive the industry as employers continue to experience talent shortages and therefore seek additional technologies to increase HR effectiveness.

A transaction that highlights many of the above trends was CAVU Human Capital Management's acquisition of Silver State Payroll, a provider of payroll processing services, in January 2022. Silver State will allow CAVU to further expand its geographic coverage, talent, and support capabilities across payroll and human capital management solutions.
