CHAAR APPALOOSA ASSOCIATION Terms and Conditions

Horseback riding is a risky sport and activity, and can be dangerous. We train our horses to be friendly, confident, and have a good understanding of their surroundings. However, they are released with the understanding that the rider does so at their own risk.

Responsibility

Under no circumstances can CHAAR APPALOOSA ASSOCIATION be held responsible for force majeure, for actions by third parties unrelated to the provision of the services outlined in the Contract, or for poor performance of the Contract. Furthermore, it is specified that activities (sports activities, excursions, etc.), as well as any other activity provided by an external service provider, undertaken solely at the initiative of the client, or purchased on-site as an additional cost beyond the package, are in all cases the exclusive responsibility of the external providers managing these activities. Consequently, CHAAR APPALOOSA ASSOCIATION'S responsibility cannot be engaged in these cases.

In the event of misconduct by a client, and without prejudice to any legal remedies CHAAR APPALOOSA ASSOCIATION may exercise to seek compensation for damages suffered, CHAAR APPALOOSA ASSOCIATION reserves the right to take any appropriate measures against the offending client, including exclusion. Such exclusion may result in the loss of any benefits and, if applicable, the cancellation of all already reserved packages for future departures. Cancellation in this context will be considered a client-initiated cancellation.

To ensure the safety and enjoyment of all participants, the following conditions apply to this riding holiday:

1. Travel Insurance

All riders must have comprehensive travel insurance that includes cover for horse riding activities.

2. Riding Equipment

Riders are required to bring and wear their own approved riding helmet and chaps throughout the holiday.

3. Riding Experience

This holiday is suitable for riders with basic riding experience. Participants should either:

- Possess basic riding skills and be comfortable controlling a horse independently at walk and trot; or
- Have completed a minimum of 7–8 riding lessons prior to the trip.

These requirements are in place to ensure both rider safety and the welfare of the horses.

Border control, customs, and other formalities for the entire stay.

To travel smoothly, valid administrative documents are essential, and additional formalities must be completed by clients under their own responsibility and at their own expense. Under no circumstances does CHAAR APPALOOSA ASSOCIATION substitute for the individual responsibility of clients, who must ensure the verification and obtaining of all necessary formalities before departure and throughout the trip. Non-compliance with formalities, the inability of a client to present valid administrative documents, or the prohibition from entering the territory, remain the responsibility and financial burden of the client, and CHAAR APPALOOSA ASSOCIATION will not reimburse or replace the service. All information related to these documents and formalities is available from the relevant diplomatic missions.

Valuables

During your stay, do not leave any valuables, identification documents, or jewelry unattended in your accommodation. CHAAR APPALOOSA ASSOCIATION cannot be held responsible for the theft of valuables or jewelry that are not deposited in the room's safe or the main safe. It is the client's responsibility to file a report with local authorities if necessary.
