"Every Monday, I wake up excited, knowing that more than 1,000 kids will be playing sports at our courses this week – and that's just amazing. The social impact of our business is key for me, and when it goes hand in hand with a profitable business model, the whole project makes even more sense."

"Gymnathlon was supposed to be one of my smaller projects, but after just two years, it turned into my full-time job. The beginning, of course, required a lot of sacrificed time and effort, but it was absolutely worth it! One huge advantage is the incredibly professional support we receive in web presentation, administrative systems, and marketing—something a small sports club like ours could never afford on its own."
