

Product Details

Vidang, Vividang

It is a woody, climbing shrub native to India and tropical regions of Southeast Asia. The plant thrives in warm, humid climates and is often found in hilly and forested areas. It has slender, flexible branches with dark green, ovate leaves that are smooth and slightly pointed. The shrub produces small, white to greenish-yellow flowers that bloom in clusters, followed by round, dark purple to black berries when ripe. These berries, known for their medicinal properties, are the primary part of the plant used in Ayurvedic formulations.
