

Product Details

Vidhara, Vardharo

It is a perennial climbing shrub from the Convolvulaceae family. It is a robust, woody creeper recognized for its broad, heart-shaped leaves covered with soft silvery hairs, giving them a velvety appearance. The plant produces striking purple funnel-shaped flowers and rounded fruit capsules containing seeds. Naturally found in tropical and subtropical regions, Vidhara grows vigorously in warm climates and has long been valued for its medicinally important roots, seeds, and leaves.
