

the script

Content Writer

The next chapter of healthcare starts here.

Clinician-founded, tech-forward, and heart-led, we're on a mission to reimagine what travel and contract work can be.

Who We Are

We're focused on uplifting the people that power our healthcare.

We bring experience in both the staffing, and clinical world. We've worked in the systems we're trying to lift up. In doing so, we've seen firsthand the areas that need improvement - and there were many. We've built and scaled a successful company from the ground up in the education space. This time, we're focused on healthcare, and building with even more intention.

This role - the one you're reading about now - isn't just another bullet point on a career path. It's a cornerstone. This is a rare opportunity to build with us from the start. You'll be helping craft the systems, culture, and strategy that carry us forward. Your fingerprints will be on the foundation; your voice in the room where decisions are made.

This is The Script. And we're writing a new kind of story.

Our Values

We're focused on harnessing business as a force for good. Our values of community, innovation and sustainability are our pillar and guide us as we scale for the future.

Community

We rise by lifting others. That means constantly listening, learning, and evolving. We champion equity, celebrate difference, and take action by supporting causes that touch our lives—through financial contributions, team volunteer days, and a platform for our people to spotlight the nonprofits making real change in their communities.

Innovation

We don't just keep up—we're building what's next. From smarter systems to thoughtful tech, we're designing a future where healthcare works better for you.

Sustainability

We're building something that lasts, and does good along the way. Our efforts include reducing paper waste through digital-first systems, working with clients and teams on utilizing reusable and renewable resources, and partnering with vendors who share our environmental values.

Who You Are

Experienced Healthcare Writer or Clinical Professional

You have a background in writing healthcare content or direct experience as a nurse, traveler, or nurse educator. You know the realities of the field and can translate them into words that resonate.

Skilled Researcher & Communicator

You excel at turning complex, technical topics—like pay structures or licensure—into clear, engaging, and actionable information. You are well versed in citing evidence-based, credible and science-backed research.

Self-Starter & Deadline Driver

You take initiative, manage your time well, and consistently meet deadlines without needing heavy oversight.

Aligned with Our Mission

You're energized by The Script's purpose to reimagine contract healthcare with heart and innovation. You want to help clinicians navigate their careers with clarity and confidence.

What You'll Do

Research and write articles on topics such as:

- Starting a career as a travel nurse
- Understanding nursing departments and specialties
- Navigating pay structures and compensation
- Licensing requirements and state-by-state processes
- Skills needed for specific practice areas

Break down complex concepts into clear, engaging language for clinicians

Adapt your writing style to fit our brand voice: human, innovative, supportive

Assist in building a library of resources clinicians can trust and return to

Collaborate with founders and subject matter experts to ensure accuracy and alignment with The Script's mission and values

What You Can Expect From Us

Flexible Contractor Role

This is a freelance/contract position designed for professionals who may already work in healthcare, education, or other writing projects.

Part-Time & Project-Based

Estimated 15-25 hours per week initially, depending on workload and assignment timelines. Then, tapering off to an as-needed role.

Initial Planning Meeting

We'll kick off with a virtual session to align on topics, expectations, and timelines.

Remote Work & Flexible Hours

Work when and where you're most productive, within in the US, as long as agreed upon timelines are met. Check-ins will keep everyone aligned.

Paid Per Assignment

Compensation will be set by mutual agreement before each project, based on the scope and complexity of the work.

Room to Grow

While this is a flexible, part-time role, if it is a great fit, there is the opportunity to expand the role into a part-time position supporting social media, clinician education, or travel-focused content.

Culture of Empathy & Respect

We take care of each other here. You'll be seen, heard, and valued—not just for what you do, but for who you are.

A Mission That Matters

You'll be part of something rare—an organization that is clinician-founded, tech-forward, and heart-led. Your work will have meaning, every step of the way.

---

Ready To Start a New Chapter?

We're looking forward to hearing from you.

hello@thescript.health

Work that moves you.

