

To Whom It May Concern,

It is with great confidence and appreciation that I write this letter of recommendation for Resonant Technology Partners (RTP). As one of the Principals of CDS Muery, I can say without hesitation that partnering with RTP in 2009 has been one of the best decisions we've made for our firm's technology needs.

From the very beginning, RTP has exceeded our expectations. Their team is not only highly responsive and knowledgeable, but they also bring a deep understanding of the engineering industry and the specialized software we rely on every day. It's rare to find a managed services provider that truly speaks our language, and RTP does just that.

One of the things we value most is that RTP is a local company with a physical, brick-and-mortar presence right here in San Antonio. Their team work out of their own offices, not outsourced, which gives us peace of mind and a level of accountability that's hard to find elsewhere.

Their commitment to excellence, proactive support, and ability to anticipate our needs have made a lasting impression. We feel genuinely supported and understood, and that is important to us.

If you're considering a managed services provider that truly understands the unique needs of engineering firms and delivers exceptional service, I wholeheartedly recommend Resonant Technology Partners.

Sincerely,
