Investment Objective

The objective of the Latitude Horizon Fund is to deliver capital appreciation over the long term by holding a concentrated portfolio of stocks, whilst lowering the equity risk and enhancing returns through a selection of non-equity investments.

September Commentary

This month Central Banks in the two most important economies in the world, the US and China, lowered benchmark policy rates.

In the US we saw a 0.5% interest rate cut while China delivered both an interest rate cut and a reduction in bank reserve requirements, both aimed directly at stimulating lending and growth.

The result of this policy easing was a short-lived rally in government bonds, which has since reversed entirely.

Enthusiasm for stock markets was undented by the interest rate volatility, with US markets in particular making new all-time highs.

We don't believe lower interest rates are intrinsically better news for stock markets as, if they do fall, this will likely be coincident with lower growth.

US markets remain on expensive valuation multiples considering the current and expected growth rates. For the S&P 500, earnings per share have risen 2% per year since the low in 2022, while the price of the index has risen 27% per year. This is unsustainable, and we continue to position the equity portfolio in undervalued shares of durable growth businesses.

This is notable through some portfolio changes this month.

We added UnitedHealth and Cencora, two stocks in the US healthcare sector. Both have resilient earnings profiles that are buttressed by the ongoing requirement to treat ageing populations in the US and deliver higher levels of service alongside the increasing demand for medication.

Healthcare spending is highly defensive and has proven over many years to be impervious to inflation - if it rises again, earnings for these businesses will benefit.

While the market is sanguine about inflation being vanquished, reflected in market implied expected inflation of 2.1% over the next five years, we will continue to own businesses which will do better in an inflationary regime, and well without it.

Alongside this, we hold our positions in index-linked bonds which, at present, are simply delivering a "cash-like" return but with the embedded protection.

We do not require elevated inflation to make returns, but we want to be ready for it if it does rise again.

Strategy's Previous Track Record - This is a composite of performance of long-only global absolute return portfolios principally the Latitude Horizon Fund, which launched on 1 November 2016. Prior to this, from 19 October 2012 to 31 October 2016, the portfolio was managed at Odey Asset Management LLP ("Odey"). The information above is for information purposes, only the Latitude Horizon Fund is being offered for investment. Performance above is net of fees and other charges. Past performance does not guarantee future results and the value of all investments and the income derived therefrom can decrease as well as increase. Investments that have an exposure to currencies other than the base currency of the strategy may be subject to exchange rate fluctuations. The data above reflects the reinvestment of all interest and dividends received. The Latitude Horizon Fund is a long only UCITS fund managed with similar investment guidelines, using the same investment process and subject to similar fees and charges. For full details always refer to the prospectus. While every effort will be made to manage the Latitude Horizon Fund in the same manner there is no guarantee that there will be similar performance. Note that at Odey the portfolio changed from a long only UCITS fund to a long-short UCITS fund on 23 April 2014. The performance in the chart above, from 23 April 2014 to 31 October 2016, is a carve-out of the actual long only portfolio at Odey, which includes both long only equity and non-equity positions, rebased to cancel out any effects from leverage. Further details on the carve-out are available upon request.
