Aims and activities of the organisation	ITECAM is a non-profit organization located in Castilla – La Mancha, a big region in the middle of Spain. With more than 20 years of experience, ITECAM is composed of a multidisciplinary team of industrial engineers, chemist, designers, market researchers, PhDs, and project managers. The team is dedicated to addressing industrial challenges throughout the entire innovation chain – from initial concept to final market deployment. As a regional RTO , ITECAM supports the transfer of technology and innovation, particularly to small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs), which represent over 99% of the industrial sector in Castilla-La Mancha. Thanks to its deep territorial anchorage and close cooperation with the local ecosystem, it has become the most impactful innovation driver in the region. Furthermore, ITECAM leads one of the most influential industrial clusters in Castilla-La Mancha , representing more than 365 companies from the metal-mechanical and manufacturing sector. This cluster serves as a key enabler of collaborative innovation, knowledge sharing, and regional economic development. ITECAM’s dual role allows us to connect the research sector with industrial communities, promoting research development and encouraging technological innovation in industrial companies. In addition, we collaborate with universities, research centres, public organizations, official bodies, associations, private companies, SME and large companies. We have engaged in collaborative research project with the mentioned partners in Spanish and European initiatives related to Renewable Energies, Innovative Materials,

	Additive Manufacturing, Circular Economy, New ICT Technologies, Industry 4.0, Digitalization, Innovation ecosystems
Role of the organisation in the project	ITECAM is interested in participating in transnational cooperation projects as an active partner, contributing to its design and digital innovation capabilities to strengthen collaboration between scientific-technological organisations and the cultural and creative sectors. In particular, ITECAM's design team brings expertise in virtual reality environments, 3D scanning and digital modelling, as well as the use of artificial intelligence for digitalization processes and content enhancement. The organisation has experience in the digitalization of cultural heritage assets and in the development of technology-based applications for cultural contexts, supporting more accessible, immersive and innovative ways of preserving, interpreting and communicating cultural content. Through participation in a CREA-CULT-2026-COOP project, ITECAM aims to bring this technological knowledge to the consortium while also expanding its collaboration with cultural and creative entities, with a strong interest in building long-term cross-sector partnerships that connect innovation, heritage, design and audience engagement.
