Our History

The Waterworks Food Hall is situated on a site with a rich history. It initially served as a public market, then as a public works space, and now as a landmark destination offering a unique culinary experience.

A history of taste

The site once housed St. Andrew's Market. Originally built in 1850, a grander market, designed in the Renaissance Revival style was opened in 1873 to house everything from fresh produce to a police station and public library. Due to waning popularity, the market was closed and the building was demolished in the late 1920s.

The industrial era

The Waterworks Building was designed by Chief Architect J.J. Woolnough as part of a government initiative to create jobs during the Great Depression. Built in 1932 in the Art Deco style, it housed the City of Toronto's Water Works offices and machine shop until 2013 and was awarded heritage status in 2017.

An industrial evolution

In 2016, Woodcliffe Landmark Properties, in partnership with MOD Developments, purchased the site as part of a mixed-use development that includes 297 condominiums, a 60,000 sq ft YMCA, 75 underground parking spaces, and a 55,000 sq ft European-inspired food hall with multiple event spaces.

Unforgettable events happen here.

A culinary destination in the King West neighbourhood

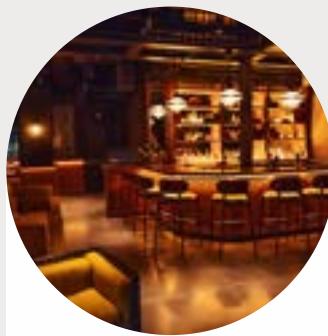

With exposed brick walls, a soaring 44-foot ceiling, skylights, steel beams and brick columns, the Waterworks Food Hall is a stunning heritage building and a rich setting for your event. We offer over 12,000 sf of unique event space, perfect for private events, intimate gatherings, holiday celebrations, corporate functions, weddings and more. Choose from a restaurant-style catering menu, or let your guests explore a variety of fares and artisanal cuisines in the food hall.
