

5 WAYS THE RIGHT BODY CAMERA IMPROVES OUTCOMES ACROSS YOUR DEPARTMENT

COREFORCE

When every second matters, the right tools make all the difference. A smart body camera system does more than record — it helps your agency work faster, safer, and with greater confidence and transparency. Here are five key ways the right technology can improve outcomes across your department:

SPEED UP EVIDENCE MANAGEMENT

The Coreforce BodyWorn Camera Suite provides agencies with camera choice - based upon role needs and preference. BodyWorn camera footage uploads securely and seamlessly to Coreforce DEMS - where it can be automatically classified and saved. Reducing manual tasks save hours of administrative time and accelerate review by investigators and prosecutors.

ENHANCE OFFICER SAFETY

From crash sensors to the "officer down" feature, the right body camera system can detect when something goes wrong and send immediate alerts — with GPS tracking to pinpoint the officer's location. It's more than a tool; it's backup when it matters most.

AUTOMATE YOUR CRITICAL MOMENTS

Automated triggers — such as unholstering weapons, computer-aided dispatch (CAD) automations, or running and struggle detectors — ensure cameras are recording in high-stress scenarios. Features like pre-record buffers capture footage leading up to an event, reducing the chance of missing critical situations.

BOOST MORALE AND REDUCE STRESS

Quick access to video can help you resolve complaints faster by providing a clear, objective record of what actually happened. Officers can move on without lingering doubts or drawn-out investigations. It's a tool that supports both accountability and peace of mind.

ENABLE REAL-TIME OVERSIGHT AND TRAINING

Supervisors and Command Staff can live stream footage during critical incidents, review interactions remotely, and use real examples for coaching and training. It turns everyday footage into insights, helping your department improve tactics, training, and trust.

Ready to improve efficiencies and modernize your agency's approach?
Learn more and schedule a free consultation at coreforcetech.com.