

The Enterprise Shift to Modern Workstyles

Irish organisations are rethinking how technology supports productivity, collaboration and employee experience.

Hybrid work, mobility and faster decision-making have become the norm, placing new demands on the tools people rely on every day. Yet many businesses still work with mixed device environments that struggle to keep pace. Slow performance, inconsistent experiences and interruptions from updates or short battery life create friction that impacts focus and efficiency.

These issues seem small in isolation, but together they create noticeable drag across teams and departments. For today's workforce, the device they use is more than a tool. It shapes how smoothly they work, how effectively they collaborate, and how well they deliver outcomes.

Mac offers a modern and intuitive way of working. With fast performance, long battery life, strong built-in security and seamless continuity across Mac, iPad and iPhone, employees can move through their day without losing momentum.

Whether preparing for a meeting, analysing complex data or working on the move, Mac supports each task with a stable, reliable environment designed for modern workstyles.

When deployed and supported by Presidio, Mac is delivered consistently across business environments, with devices configured for specific roles, updates running quietly in the background and security strengthened without disrupting work. IT teams gain greater consistency in day-to-day support, while employees benefit from a reliable device they can depend on throughout the day.

Mac for Modern Workstyles

Mac supports smoother multitasking across demanding applications, enabling faster transitions and fewer delays throughout the working day, without worrying about battery charge. Continuity across Apple devices further reduces friction. A presentation started on Mac can be reviewed on iPad in a meeting and shared from iPhone while travelling. This cohesion across devices helps maintain flow and makes hybrid collaboration more efficient.

Security underpins the experience seamlessly. Automatic updates, secure authentication and hardware-level protection keep each device compliant and protected with minimal impact on work. For IT teams, this creates a more predictable and manageable environment that is easier to support at scale.

Business Partner

With Presidio enhancing deployment, identity integration and ongoing lifecycle management, Mac becomes a strategic investment rather than a standalone device. It provides a strong and intuitive foundation that aligns with the way people work today.

Presidio's Advantage for Enterprise

Presidio designs, deploys and manages Mac environments that reduce operational strain and support employees more effectively. As an Apple Premium Business Partner, Presidio ensures every device arrives ready to work with the right applications, settings and security controls in place.

Zero-touch deployment through Apple Business Manager speeds up onboarding and gives employees a reliable, consistent start. Updates, policy management and compliance run in the background, minimising downtime.

Why Persona-First Matters

Different roles place different demands on their devices. A persona-first approach ensures Mac is configured to support those needs directly. Presidio works with businesses to map Mac capabilities to specific roles so each person gains the performance, reliability and workflow continuity they rely on.

Presidio manages every stage of the device lifecycle, from procurement and setup to upgrades, refresh programmes and secure end-of-life.

For organisations modernising the workplace, Mac provides a unified foundation for work, with Presidio services reducing the complexity of managing devices at scale and supporting people more effectively.

At a glance, organisations benefit from:

Faster onboarding and less configuration work

Stronger security with fewer interruptions

More predictable day-to-day management for IT teams

Long-term value through durability and lifecycle support

Executives benefit from fast access to documents, stable performance during meetings and seamless mobility across Mac, iPad and iPhone. This helps them communicate more clearly and make decisions faster.

Analysts rely on speed and stability to work across large datasets, dashboards, and modelling tools. Mac handles demanding workloads with ease, helping analysts deliver insights more quickly and with greater accuracy.

These examples demonstrate how a modern device strategy can elevate everyday work across key parts of the organisation.
