

Digital Advisory

Introduction

Your entire business depends on leveraging the right technology. Every business needs to be able to maximise efficiency and access good data on a timely basis to make sound decisions. Our team is here to work with you in engaging technology providers and/or considering external providers. To ensure you make the right technology decisions:

- User experience and demands need to be effectively communicated, team members need to be matched to skill sets and processes need to be assessed and changed where necessary.
- Consideration might be given to outsourcing services that can be more efficiently delivered externally.
- Having us on your team to talk the right language to technology consultants means that you are left to keep running the business.
- The total investment required in relation to any change needs to be transparent.

Capabilities

Our Digital Advisory capabilities are as follows. Refer to our Capability Statements to see how we execute to meet your business needs.

- Cloud Accounting
- Business in the Cloud
- ERP for Growing Businesses

Benefits

The benefits to you are:

1. Basic finance functions should be moved online. This can provide the first steps to ensuring you have technology that makes data available to other applications and enhances your decision making and business management processes.
2. Moving the finance function externally may release the business from functions that it is not managing successfully. The move might then mean information is delivered and compliance requirements are met on a timely basis. Our Virtual CFO services are available if this is the right move for you.
3. Adding more technology can further enhance business capability. Having someone who talks finance, understands your business and can meet the technology experts on common ground will contribute to a successful investment in new processes.
4. Going to the next level as you grow brings significant change management in moving to an ERP system. Our experience in this area will assist you and the team to understand the coming changes and help to ensure the consultants are listening to your needs.
