In the past, tile flooring usually only appeared in kitchens and bathrooms. Now, thanks to new technologies and design innovations, tile floors can be found throughout the home. Whether you're planning on remodeling your home or just want a little inspiration, see what exciting new tile design trends are emerging in 2020.

Flooring Color Trends for 2020

Gray has held its own, and it's still a great choice. But this year's top floor tile colors tend towards warm earth tones and cool marine tones, including gray shades that mimic stones found on the beach. Whether you're inspired by land or sea, you'll find something in one of these colors to pique your interest:

- Slate
- Blue-gray
- Soft white
- Azure blue
- Sage green
- Stone gray
- Matte black
- Beige shades
- Emerald green
- Seafoam green
- Mushroom brown

Shades of gray and white blend with natural colors to form more interesting neutrals in 2020. These are most popular in marble-look flooring and other faux-stone styles.

We're Seeing a Pattern Here

Bold patterns are once again gracing the floors of stylish homes. Hexagons and other geometric shapes are making a splash. Checkered tiles are showing up in looks ranging from retro black-and-white to contemporary trickled floors. Tricked tile flooring, which usually incorporates hexagonal pieces, appears next to a contrasting type of floor material. Borderless edges create a geometric effect for an exciting transition from one room to the next. Intentionally mismatched patterns are perfect for an eclectic boho look.

Go Big at Home

look or for larger rooms. These faux-wood designs may have a distressed, hand scraped or wire brushed look that conveys the warmth of real wood. Distressed styles add texture and natural appeal to any decor. Wide planks provide a dramatic touch, and big tiles are an eye-catching addition. Larger tiles with less grout give the illusion of a bigger room, and mixed-width tile floors add a touch of the unexpected.

Whatever your taste in home decor, you can't miss with this year's tile trends. From perfectly natural browns and blues to postmodern shapes, there's something for every color scheme and room layout.

Related Question

What tile colors were trending in 2020?

Popular 2020 tile colors included warm earth tones and cool marine shades like slate, stone gray, sage green, seafoam, azure, and soft whites, often blended for interesting neutrals.

What are "trickled" tile floors?

Trickled tile floors use shapes like hexagons that appear to spill or blend into another flooring material without clear borders, creating a bold, geometric transition between rooms.

Are patterned tiles still in style?

Yes. Bold patterns such as hexagons, checkered designs, and intentionally mismatched tiles were a big trend in 2020 and continue to be popular for adding character and visual interest.

What is wood-look tile, and why choose it?

Wood-look tile is ceramic or porcelain tile designed to mimic hardwood planks, offering the warmth and appearance of wood with the durability, water resistance, and easy maintenance of tile.
