

No Happy Ending

JUDGES 19-21

Judges 21:25 In those days there was no king in Israel. Everyone did what was right in his own eyes.

Review the Sermon

Read Judges 19.

Why does a book like Judges end with such a tragic and disturbing conclusion?

What is wrong with everyone doing what's right in their own eyes?

How does the ending of Judges point forward to the need for a true King?

Assess your Life

Where in your life are you most tempted to do what is right in your own eyes?

What values shape your decisions more than Scripture?

How have you created personal rules or standards to make you feel righteous while avoiding the pursuit of real heart change through the power of the gospel?

Apply the Truth

What is one area of your life where you need to submit your values to King Jesus?

How can you intentionally align your daily decisions with God's wisdom this week?

What practical steps can you take to ensure your faith shapes your entire week – not just Sunday?

Commit this Week

Will you commit to surrendering your daily habits to Jesus as King, so that your values, decisions, and commitments are all under His authority?

There is no happy ending if Jesus is not King of your life!
