

FUTURETIME: SPACE STARTUPS

What we learned today:

Today we explored how space isn't just for astronauts anymore —it's for entrepreneurs, too! We learned about the history of space travel, the rise of space businesses like space tourism and asteroid mining, and imagined what kinds of space startups might exist in the year 2055. Then we built models of our own space companies, from orbiting hotels to Moon habitats to robotic mining stations!

Quiz your family!

Which company is working on sending tourists to the edge of space in a capsule?

- A) NASA
- B) Blue Origin
- C) Skittles

Ask your family

“If you could start your own space business, what would it be—and why?”
