Tru Living Recovery | Living With Purpose. On Purpose.

TRU BEGINNINGS

Leadership Message

As 2026 begins, Tru Living Recovery enters the year with steady progress and renewed energy. New beginnings invite reflection—an opportunity to honor how far we have come and consider where we are headed.

Recovery is not linear; it is lived through small decisions, renewed commitments, and the quiet courage to keep showing up. Our work emphasizes safety, belonging, skill development, self-awareness, and the capacity to make meaningful change over time.

Looking forward, we remain focused on expanding access, strengthening programming, and deepening collaboration across levels of care. Our priority continues to be supporting individuals as they rebuild with dignity, agency, and hope. We extend gratitude to our team, the individuals we serve, families, and community partners. Every thoughtful action and steady presence matters.

TRU RESET

Wellness & Renewal

The start of the year invites reflection on purpose—not as achievement, but as alignment. Purpose is something we return to through values, relationships, and how we move through the world, especially in times of change.

TRU IMPACT

Recognizing Excellence

This quarter, we recognize Adrienne Jessup, Recovery Technician, for her consistent presence, flexibility, and commitment to supporting both clients and teammates. Adrienne leads in quiet and impactful ways, modeling reliability, compassion, and professionalism.

As she nears completion of her bachelor’s degree in business, we celebrate her dedication to continual learning and personal growth. “Adrienne shows up with consistency, compassion, and a willingness to help wherever needed.”

TRU PERSPECTIVE

Recovery Insight

Recovery is not a straight line, nor a destination to reach and leave behind. It is a living process—one of rebuilding, learning, and rediscovering authenticity, connection, and purpose.

Early in the year offers a gentle pause—a chance to notice strengths already within reach and to begin again in ways that honor individual pace, safety, and choice.
